

7/18/46

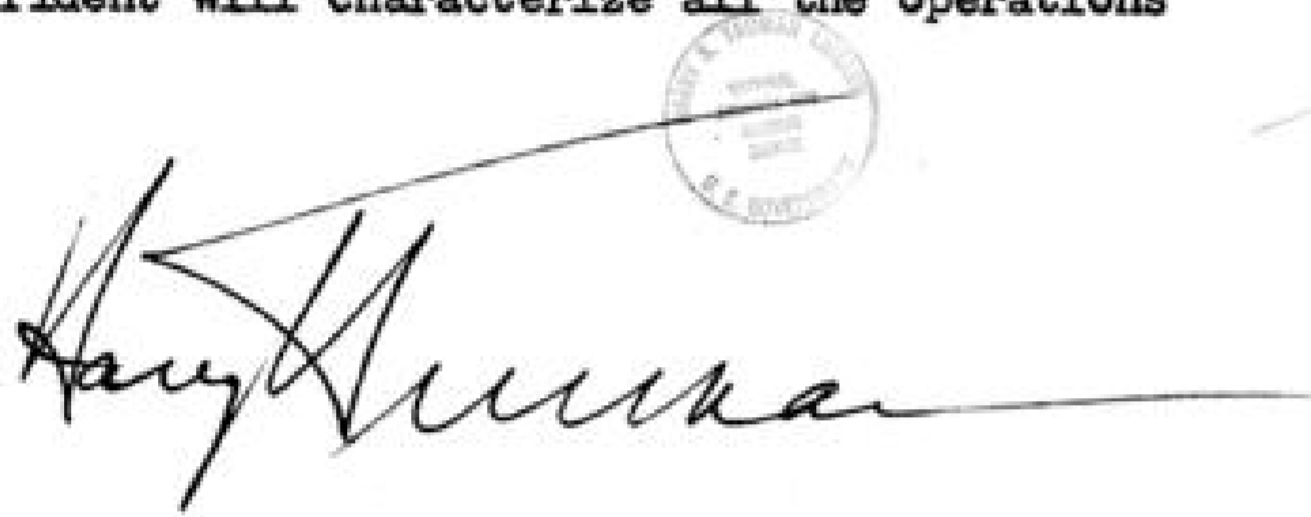

204-13

STATEMENT TO BE ISSUED AT THE WHITE HOUSE, MONDAY, JAN. 7, BY MR. ROSS:

The Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry is commencing this morning to hold hearings on Palestine and the European Jews.

The President is glad to note that the Committee has started its proceedings so promptly. It is to be hoped that the Committee will be able successfully to complete its examination of the various matters contained in its terms of reference.

The fact that the British Members of the Committee have agreed that the inquiry should begin in Washington is also particularly welcome as evidence of the spirit of cooperation which the President is confident will characterize all the operations of the Committee.

 A handwritten signature in cursive script, appearing to read "Harry Truman", is written over a circular official seal.

 A small, stylized handwritten mark or symbol.

x204
x76-6

File

IMMEDIATE RELEASE

JANUARY 7, 1946

The Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry is beginning this morning to hold hearings on Palestine and the European Jews.

The President is glad to note that the Committee has started its proceedings so promptly. It is to be hoped that the Committee will be able successfully to complete its examination of the various matters contained in its terms of reference.

The fact that the British Members of the Committee have agreed that the inquiry should begin in Washington is also particularly welcome as evidence of the spirit of cooperation which the President is confident will characterize all the operations of the Committee.

Immediate Release

January 7, 1946.

~~STATEMENT TO BE ISSUED AT THE WHITE HOUSE, MONDAY, JAN. 7, BY MR. ROSS:~~

The Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry is ^{beginning} commencing this morning to hold hearings on Palestine and the European Jews.

The President is glad to note that the Committee has started its proceedings so promptly. It is to be hoped that the Committee will be able successfully to complete its examination of the various matters contained in its terms of reference.

The fact that the British Members of the Committee have agreed that the inquiry should begin in Washington is also particularly welcome as evidence of the spirit of cooperation which the President is confident will characterize all the operations of the Committee.