Copies No. 1 through No. 8 of this report are master copies which have attached to them the following appendices: Exhibit A, Statistics on Jewish Casualties During Asia Occupation, prepared in cooperation with the Institute of Jewish Affairs, New York, and Exhibit B, Deportations and Reparations, Jewish Affairs, published in the Bulletin From War to Peace (Vol. 2), issued by the Institute of Jewish Affairs.

Owing to reproduction difficulties, and because of the urgency of issuing the report, these appendices have had to be omitted from all other copies.
The multitude of crimes committed against the Jews of Nazi-occupied Europe cannot be regarded as merely isolated instances of individual brutality. Rather they constitute one continuous and indivisible crime — a criminal conspiracy against the Jewish people.

All the various anti-Jewish measures taken by the Germans, from petty discrimination to final mass murder, were executed by the government, its agencies, party formations, the large, private and semi-public associations, or even spontaneous mobs, were links in the same chain.

As to the indictment of those guilty of crimes against the Jews, it should be remembered that physical extermination through killings of individuals and groups of mass murders was merely the last step in the plan to exterminate the Jewish people. The earlier preparatory phase, such as the persecution of the Jewish religion, the discrimination of the Jews, the destruction of their economic life, their isolation in ghettos, mass starvation, deportations, forced labor and the organized mass violence against them were all part and parcel of the same murder plan against the Jewish people. It is essential to stress that it is equally criminal to geographically against a racial, ethnic, religious or political group, and by depriving it of an opportunity to earn a living, indirectly to exterminate it, as it is to liquidate in outright murder.

It should be borne in mind that the agencies, associations and persons, even engaged in carrying out earlier phases of the plan are equally guilty with those who accord it its final phase, thus all are punishable.
