Exclusionism signifies the deprivation of the citizen in his capacity to participate on equal terms with all others in the political, social and cultural life of his country, to enjoy the same protection of the law, to enjoy free use of existing public or private institutions of any kind, to move about freely, etc. Exclusionism is the external or outward harrassment of the members of a politically and socially inferior group.

A. intrinsic and Purposal

If the Jews were to meet the fate which was prepared for them in advance, viz., total extinction, they first had to lose the status of normal citizens, inhabitants of a given country, and even that of an ordinary human being to be deprived of every opportunity of service to the community, to be stigmatised legally and outwardly as not belonging to For some category in the past, in the context of being placed in a lowest form of the social hierarchy of people, resulting from whoever, and to be treated as if all contact with the remainder of the population. Only in this event could individuals over the publicly identified and accounted for so as to be subjected to the imposition of the final measure of extermination as to be deprived of all their property and economic activity, based upon violence, prison to forced labor and concentration camps, starvation to death, and resistance in armed resistance. Thus, discrimination and extermination were the deliberate and instigated measures applied by German to prepare for the mass murder of all Jews and went, therefore, to identify as a preconceived preparatory step to all other crimes committed against the Jews.

4. Scene of the Perpetrators

Jewish discrimination and extermination under the Nazis involved, including the major basic step, namely, exclusion from citizenship. This was followed by depriving Jews of property.

1 - Exhibit 2, Germany, Nos. 70, 71, 80, 83, 85, 87, 89, 94, 101, 102; Austria, Nos. 5, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19; Czechoslovakia, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 10; Yugoslavia, No. 104; Poland, No. 81.
CONFIDENTIAL

...
In the end, much of the detail. ordered them to live in of the main part of the build, a few more details about the build. A question is whether the building is still in progress. With regard to the materials, it seems to be in progress. All these issues were also covered in the contract. The overall design of the building was based on the original plan. In the end, it was all about making sure the building was completed as per the plan.
or passports and to wear visible means of identification and barred them from using telephones and the mails, as well as to acquire special permits, to obtain special passes, to wear uniforms or special identification cards, to obtain special travel documents, not subject to special jurisdiction. They were also forced to do shopping or business only in certain places and during certain hours. Jews were also forbidden to possess weapons, hunting, fishing, driver's and other licenses, not to wear uniforms and decorations. They were also discriminated against in all fields.
of these forms of discrimination are contained in Exhibit K.

All the measures of discrimination and stigmatization were not always applied in all cases but the fundamental acts involved the separation of the Jews from the rest of the population, depriving them of their basic rights, and eventually their cultural 'depravity', were introduced conspectus. (see anti-Jewish legislation, Exhibit F).

D. The Physical Repression

Discrimination and stigmatization, as practiced by the Germans, affected, in their direct action, the material presence (being) of every right enjoyed by members of a civilized community; altered them in an infinitely inferior condition toward the rest of the community in every respect of life; and their outlook for what special and sovereign laws and military procedures were applicable and generally stipulated them out from the rest of 10 - Czechoslovakia, Nov. 26, 39, 70, 71; Poland, Nov. 28, 86.

CONFIDENTIAL
the population he overture not actually belonging to the human species. This in itself is a criminal undertaking, since it degraded the Jews to a status which is, in every sense, contrary to the basic principles on which civilization rests, and without which it cannot exist.

Furthermore, these measures were introduced in the occupied and annexed territories in flagrant violation of accepted international rules -- i.e., the 4th Geneva Convention -- which obliges the occupant to respect the laws in force, and these laws -- without exception -- guaranteed the Jews equal treatment with all other inhabitants of the territory. Thus all these measures constitute international crime. Moreover, discrimination and degradation as practiced against Jews by the Nazi government and its function was the basic and often initial stage in the Nazi plan to exterminate the Jewish people.